Forest Overture

A 1-page score in C for improvising ensemble

Kerry Andrew

Ethereal

The first time this phrase appears it should be as written, though at any octave; after this the last paused note can vary, and the phrase can be transposed and developed a high drone rustling

Either: interpreted freely
And/or: a rigid development, with rests always being to the power of a semiquaver

To always appear as chords of two notes or more, any octave mysterious

On any long note in the piece, you may (or may not!) gradually vary the sound in the middle of the note, eg (or any other ways you like):

Any octave, any notes, to be developed

Any one of the single chord-notes, motif at any octave

bitter

Any rhythm, any octave, but must be in this order, starting anywhere brittle

After 1'30 to 2 minutes, TREES/ANIMALS add a vocal forest soundscape...

FLUTE: after approx 15 seconds of vocal forest soundscape, introduce this motif once, before moving onto Scene 2. Phrasing is up to you.
